What the Children Have Been Up To

The children have enjoyed making and creating with play dough. Play dough is great way to help children develop their fine motor skills. Children build their speech and language skills through encounters of social interactions with their peers while manipulating the play dough. Adding loose parts to the play dough with items such as: shells, rocks, small sticks, and beads the children can enhance and develop their divergent thinking, cognitive, and problem solving skills. When you add loose parts you give children a chance to "think outside the box"

Waskada Museum - Endowment Fund

This is a reminder about the opportunity to support the Waskada Museum by contributing to the newly-created endowment fund. The museum was created in 1970 by people interested in preserving items from the past for future generations. Their efforts have resulted in the displays we have today representing many aspects of the early years in this part of the province.

Our hope is that if you and/or a family member have contributed items to the museum, you will help to build up the endowment fund to ensure a permanent source of funding for the preservation of these artifacts. We have items from all the surrounding districts, as evidenced by the following list of contributors. -The Waskada Museum Committee
